

Junior Networker
London
£80,000 + Package
Vacancy ID: 010163

You are building your network within the London commercial property market and want a stronger platform behind you.

This role offers the opportunity to represent a Tier 1 design and build contractor turning over £140M and continuing to grow.

With an £80K package plus commission and the freedom to manage your own diary, you will strengthen relationships that lead to prestigious workplace projects.

What You'll Do

You will speak regularly with agents and project managers, building and maintaining relationships with senior individuals involved in workplace change.

You will position the business early in discussions around relocations and refurbishments, helping to create the pipeline that underpins future commercial fit out projects.

You will manage your own diary, arranging meetings, attending industry events and travelling across London to develop face to face relationships.

You will maintain consistent communication with your network, ensuring the brand remains visible and credible within a competitive market.

What You'll Get

You will receive an £80,000 package plus commission, reflecting both your experience and your growth potential.

You will represent a recognised global brand delivering prestigious projects within the London workplace sector.

You will join a growing business with genuine promotion prospects as turnover continues to increase.

You will operate within a professional, grown up culture where autonomy, trust and long term relationship building are valued.

The role offers regular travel across London, enabling you to build meaningful in person connections.

What You'll Need

You must have at least a small network within the commercial property market and feel comfortable engaging with agents and project managers.

You will demonstrate confidence in relationship building and an understanding of how design and build projects are originated.

You must be London based and comfortable working full time from the office while managing external meetings.

About the Company

You will be joining a Tier 1 London based design and build contractor with turnover of £140M and ambitious growth plans. The business is known for delivering high quality, prestigious workplace projects and operates within a professional, commercially focused culture centred on long term success.
